ISTE ANNUAL REPORT 2021-22

An extraordinary method to include students in technology education and encourage the use of technology in the college is to form an ISTE (International Society for Technology in Education) student committee. The following procedures will help you form an ISTE student committee:
Finding students who are interested : Speak with students who are enthusiastic about technology and learning. Posters, social media, and campus communication channels can all be used for promotion in this way.
Get consent: Check that the committee is in line with the college's aims and policies by speaking with the administration. This can entail submitting a proposal explaining the committee's objectives and purpose.
Identify the committee's objectives: Establish the committee's goals and objectives. This may entail advancing technological education, planning technological events, or developing resources for teachers.
Assign roles: Assign the committee members' respective duties. This can comprise a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary, treasurer, and members of the committee. To allow everyone an opportunity to take the lead, think about swapping places.
Decide on a time to meet: Establish consistent meeting times that are convenient for each committee member. In the event that participants are unable to meet in person, think about employing technology to support virtual meetings.
Create a strategy: Make a plan that details the committee's objectives, tactics, and timetable. This can entail planning events, producing teaching materials, or working on tech-related initiatives.
To support the committee: Inform the professors, parents, and student body about the committee. Flyers, social media, and the school's communication channels can all be used for this.
Regularly assess the committee's advancement towards its objectives

ISTE Annual Report 2019-20

At the start of the academic year 2019-20, we followed the ISTE committee formation process as follows:

Creating an ISTE (Indian Society for Technology in Education) student committee can be a great way to engage students in technology education and promote the use of technology in the classroom. Here are some steps to create an ISTE student committee:

Identify interested students: Reach out to students who are passionate about technology and education. This can be done by advertising through college communication channels, social media, and posters

Get approval: Speak with institute administrators to ensure that the committee aligns with the institute policies and goals. This may involve submitting a proposal outlining the purpose and goals of the committee.

Determine the committee's purpose: Decide on the goals and objectives of the committee. This can include promoting technology education, organizing technology-related events, or creating resources for teachers.

Assign roles: Determine the roles of the committee members. This can include a president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary, and committee members. Consider rotating positions to give everyone a chance to lead.

Establish meeting times: Set up regular meeting times that work for all committee members. Consider using technology to facilitate virtual meetings if members are unable to meet in person.

Develop a plan: Create a plan that outlines the committee's goals, strategies, and timeline. This can include organizing events, creating resources for teachers, or working on technology-related projects.

Promote the committee: Spread the word about the committee to the student body, faculty, and parents. This can be done through institute communication channels, social media, and flyers.

Evaluate progress: Regularly evaluate the committee's progress toward its goals. This can be done through surveys, feedback from teachers and students, and self-evaluation.

ISTE Annual Report 2018-19

At the starting of the academic year 2018-19 we followed ISTE committee formation process as follows:

Creating an ISTE (Indian Society for Technology in Education) student committee can be a great way to engage students in technology education and promote the use of technology in the classroom. Here are some steps to create an ISTE student committee:

Identify interested students: Reach out to students who are passionate about technology and education. This can be done by advertising through college communication channels, social media, and posters.

Get approval: Speak with institute administrators to ensure that the committee aligns with institute policies and goals. This may involve submitting a proposal outlining the purpose and goals of the committee.

Determine the committee's purpose: Decide on the goals and objectives of the committee. This can include promoting technology education, organizing technology-related events, or creating resources for teachers.

Assign roles: Determine the roles of the committee members. This can include a president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary, and committee members. Consider rotating positions to give everyone a chance to lead.

Establish meeting times: Set up regular meeting times that work for all committee members. Consider using technology to facilitate virtual meetings if members are unable to meet in person.

Develop a plan: Create a plan that outlines the committee's goals, strategies, and timeline. This can include organizing events, creating resources for teachers, or working on technology-related projects.

Promote the committee: Spread the word about the committee to the student body, faculty, and parents. This can be done through institute communication channels, social media, and flyers.

Evaluate progress: Regularly evaluate the committee's progress towards its goals. This can be done through surveys, feedback from teachers and students, and self-evaluation.

In 2018 we organised Engineers day program on the occasion of birth anniversary Dr.mokshkundam vishveswaryaa also on the occasion of Engineers day we have organised poster presentation completion.

At the ABMSP's Anantrao Pawar College of Engineering and Research, Pune, organized Engineer's Day under the ISTE student chapter. We conducted poster competition organized on 15th September 2018 at 10:00 am. The theme for Poster competition is "Recent trends in Engineering" held at the Mechanical Department Seminar Hall.

The process for the formation of the ISTE student committee with all departmental HODs involves several steps. Firstly, the respective departmental coordinator of each department should be contacted and informed about the formation of the student committee. After that, the HODs should be asked to nominate the best students from their respective departments for the formation of the committee.

Next, the credentials of the students should be verified by the ISTE faculty coordinator. After the list is prepared from the interested students, the departmental coordinator should be informed about the student committee formation. All the departmental coordinators should be invited to attend the student committee formation meeting. During the meeting, the ISTE faculty head should present the list of the selected students and discuss the formation of the committee.

In the interview students asked about the qualities they had for the upbringing of the all year students from the college. The tentative planning was ask to students for the conduction of technical and non technical events throughout the year.
